Tone Poems in Full Score, Series I: Don Juan, Tod Und ...

The tone poems of Richard Strauss are like vast, sprawling trees. There is no need to follow a score to admire the beauty of the trees. If that were so, symphony orchestras would pass out copies of the score to the audience and keep the lights on. But following the score is like climbing right up into the tree.

It's the very embodiment of rampant masculinity delighting in itself. But the tone poem, like the literary poem, recognizes that this aspect of life does not last forever, and the last two pages of the score are faithful to Lenau's ending: "...the fuel is consumed and the hearth has become cold and dark."

This set of Sibelius Tone Poems cotains over 200 minutes of great music and wonderfully clear digital recordings from the 1990's. The Gothenberg Symphony Orchestra under the guidance of Neeme Jarvi produce consistantly great intepretations with plenty of atmosphere, drama and nationalistic pride in performances that suit the mood of each tone poem.
